The spotlight is firmly on the award-winning nuHaus Chicago showroom, which presents fine architectural millwork and cabinetry in real-life settings

Winning a national kitchen design competition is a great product endorsement. For nuHaus, a company specializing in the design, manufacture and installation of fine architectural millwork and cabinetry, it is also a reflection of a commitment to fine craftsmanship.

CEO Doug Durbin says the company, which won the prestigious Sub-Zero/Wolf Kitchen Design Contest for Best Showroom, places an emphasis on presenting kitchens in real-life settings.

“When designing and laying out a showroom vignette, I believe it is crucial to create a sense of home environment. Clients need to be able to envision the kitchen display in their own home.”

Durbin says the company is renowned for its attention to detail and its synchronized approach, which integrates the cabinetry with other elements, such as ceilings, decorative hardware and tables.

“This creates harmonious compositions that are functional as well as beautiful. And the hidden millwork is just as dramatic – much of our craftsmanship is concealed behind the scenes.”
